Etta Noyes is sick.

Mrs. Helen Emery visited W. S. Chandler, Friday.

"Children's day" will soon be observed by the Wildcatters.

Mrs. and Mrs. Jonathan Starbird have been on the sick list.

Lena Meader and Mrs. Amelia Cole visited East Stoneham, Sunday.

H. Knox Bickford was at home from U. of M., Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

The New Idea Society will meet Wednesday Feb. 24, with Mrs. George W. Locke.

Mrs. Yeaton has moved from Beal street into one of Fred Clark's houses on Tucker street.

O. P. Brooks went Tuesday to Boston on a business trip and will take in the revival meetings.

Mrs. Emma J. Bickford came home, Saturday. She has been away since October last. She stood the journey well.

Archdeacon Seymour visited Norway, Monday. He held a business meeting, calling together the officers of the mission of Christ church.

Mrs. George D. Swift of 21 Paris street has been very sick for the past two weeks with the grippe and tonsillitis. She is some better now. Archie and Ruby Swift are also out of school with grippe colds.

Ida Tardel will be the author studied at the Thursday session of the Barton Reading Club, when Mrs. Emma Mann will be hostess. Mrs. Freeman Howe, Jr., and Mrs. Charles Holt will be the readers of the day.

Rev. G. A. Brooks and wife went last Monday to Koonchuck to visit relatives and friends. Mrs. Brooks stops with her father, Mr. Leach, while Mr. Brooks goes on to Boston to the revival meetings held at Tremont Temple by Chapman and Alexander.

The Citizens' Telephone & Telegraph Co. have organized under its incorporation and is called the Citizens' Telephone Co. The officers elected are:

Pres.-Walter L. Gray.
Clerk-Trent-C. W. Bowker.
Treasurer-Walter L. Gray. W. F. Caldwell, T. F. Thibodeau, J. F. Plummer, A. L. Holmes.

The W. G. T. U. will hold their annual supper and sale in the vestry of the Congregational church, Friday, Feb. 19.

The sale will commence at 8 o'clock. There will be a large assortment of aprons and nice home-made candy. Supper will be served at 6:45. After the supper an entertainment will be given.

Eva Morse has been unable to attend school the last two weeks, owing to the illness of her mother. She is fast exclaiming many older housekeepers. Her first custard pie was so good it was gone to a crumb before she had a taste.

Mrs. Cora Richardson and Annie Richardson called on Mrs. Morse Sunday afternoon and found her slowly recovering her health and able to sit up a little each day.

The Ladies' Aid of the Baptist church have so much work on hand that they are obliged to meet every week instead of every two weeks as formerly. Last Thursday they met with Mrs. Robert Libby and this week the meeting is to be with Mrs. Harold Anderson.

The Aid has a very efficient president in Mrs. Dora Tower and the work committee, Mrs. Robert Libby, Mrs. Leon Longley, are certainly overzealous in their desire to aid the church by keeping the Circle bustling.

The Universalist church was filled Sunday morning for the Lincoln Centennial service. The G. A. R., W. R. C. U. S. W. V. and Co-D. made an excellent showing in numbers and in the movements.

Passing beneath arches of flags held by the color bearers they filed up the aisles to their places. Then while the choir sang the Star Spangled Banner the six flags were solemnly raised.

After the gesture of salute by the comrades and citizens, the color bearers bent repeating the pledge of allegiance to the flag and country. The service was inspiring. The front of the church was tastefully filled with arches of flags and display of large and small flags with a picture of Lincoln in the center.

The choir sang a spirited rendering of two patriotic songs.

The Epworth League of the M. E. church held their Antiquarian Supper and entertainment last Friday evening. The tables were lighted with tapers and candles. A large number of guests were present. The program was as follows:

Young People's Christian Union.

The Young People's Christian Union celebrated its fourteenth anniversary with a banquet at the Universalist vestry, Feb. 11. There was a large attendance of members and the South Paris Y. P. C. U. members were the guests.

After an excellent repast, the vice president, Susie Walker, welcomed the guests and introduced the toastmaster, Charles F. Ridlon.

His remarks were both happy and thoughtful. This, he said, was a Lincoln Centennial banquet and the tale of the traits of Lincoln that rivet the Union of States in the sixties and commended the same traits to sustain the Y. P. C. U. Union to-day.

The word Union in the addresses to follow would have a double meaning, therefore.

Geneva Sturtevant responded to the toast, "The Union Boys." She spoke of the heroism of "Lincoln's Boys" and commended the boys of the Y. P. C. U. but challenged them to be as faithful as the girls could be.

The toast, "The Union Girls," was responded to by Roland Kimball. As the girls in Lincoln's day sustained the soldiers, so the girls of the Y. P. C. U. here are the saving of the Union. He accepted the challenge for the boys' part of the work.

E. Royce Barrows responded to the toast, "The Union Loyalty." He told stories of those who gave up all and periled life for the Federal Union, and thought the Christian Union was worth sacrifices also.

"The Union Relationships" was dealt with by Rev. M. C. Ward. He said that the war taught the states that they must hold together in harmony, so must all the societies of the church, whether Sunday school or Union or church, all help each other.

The president of the South Paris Y. P. C. U., Harold Thayer, responded for the Union in fraternal and patriotic spirit.

Rev. J. H. Little spoke on "The Union watchword, Onward," and told the happy things of a century's progress in church and state.

He spoke as a soldier of the war and called on all to be faithful to the Christian Union.

Beryl Millett sang a solo very acceptably.

"Our Folks."

The senior class of the Norway High school presented the drama entitled "Our Folks," to a large audience, at the Norway Opera House, Tuesday evening.

The actors all carried out their parts finely and the ones who did them to see the performance enjoyed it immensely.

The curtain rose at eight o'clock and presented a kitchen scene with Mrs. Sleeper (Susie Walker) and Hu da Prime (Helen Howe) who was full of complaints, conversing about Mrs. Sleeper's husband who had gone away, when suddenly Teddy Sleeper, (personified by Charles Barker) and Becky Sleeper (Mildred McLean) came in pursued by Captain Thompson (Elmer Hussey) who was singing mad and accused them of stealing and threatened a good thrashing.

At last Aunt Hilda was a genius and had a word in every time, which was to be the last one, too.

Time goes on and Harry Thompson (Hal Atkins) who was full of complaints, conversing about Mrs. Sleeper's husband who had gone away, when suddenly Teddy Sleeper, (personified by Charles Barker) and Becky Sleeper (Mildred McLean) came in pursued by Captain Thompson (Elmer Hussey) who was singing mad and accused them of stealing and threatened a good thrashing.

The Feathered Four will go to East Waterford next Saturday evening to attend the grand ball at Haskell's hall.

A match is to be shot at the armory of Co. D. N. G. S. M., against the Rumford Falls Co., on Monday evening next.

A. R. Clark of Bolster's Mill is connected with Norway by telephone. Ring 14 22. Call him and no expense attached.

Philip Stevens has enrolled in the Michigan Business Institute and is studying the art of telegraphy. He is furnished with a complete outfit consisting of instruments, etc., and has a complete telegraph office for the purpose of completing the vocation.

Co. D are looking for young men of good character who wish to enlist and go to muster this year. A new law has been passed which requires that a recruit must enlist at least six months before going to muster. Three years of military discipline is certainly beneficial to anyone.

Noble's Corner.

Perley Russell is at work by the month for W. A. Hersey.

Edna Brown is hauling wood for Bradley Frost at the village.

Woodbury Russell saved S. R. Cole's wood pile one day last week with Russell & Herriek's engine.

Minnie Upton walked from her father's home to Norway high school, Sunday afternoon, in two and one-half hours. Good speed for a girl, considering the travel.

The Mackintosh band boys gave a concert and baked bean supper at C. G. French's last Saturday night. A very enjoyable time was spent until twelve o'clock, when they all departed to their homes. There were about a hundred people that took part in the beautiful dinner prepared by Mrs. French and daughters. They netted about ten dollars.

SOUTH PARIS.

Battle Haskell is visiting friends in Waterville.

Dr. O. K. Yates of West Paris was in town Saturday.

Doan's Kidney Pills will do this for you.

They watch the kidneys and cure them when they're sick.

Irving Merrill, living on Pleasant St., South Paris, Me., says: "A few months ago I began to suffer from pains in the small of my back and after being in a stooped position for some time I found it very difficult to straighten. Pains and lameness came to me at last when I saw that the secretions were unnatural in appearance and irregular in action. I decided that my kidneys were affected and procured Doan's Kidney Pills from F. A. Shurtleff's drug store. After taking the contents of three boxes the pain disappeared and the kidney secretions became clear and normal in action. I heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to any person suffering from disordered kidneys.

MAGALLOWAY.

W. L. Fickett

Died in Magalloway Plantation, Feb. 1st, W. L. Fickett, aged 64 years. He had been in poor health for a number of years and early in the winter had a severe attack of the triple which finally terminated in paralysis of the brain. He will be remembered as a kind neighbor, a generous friend and above all, an honest upright man, of pure life and spotless integrity, he was a great reader and well informed on all the topics of the day, those who knew him best appreciated him the most.

Mr. Fickett had been treasurer of the town for a number of years, also secretary and treasurer of the Lincoln Building Association, he belonged to the Bethel Lodge of F. & A. M. also to the Norway R. A. Chapter.

His father, the late Samuel Fickett, was one of the pioneers of Wilcox's Mills. He is survived by his wife, Sarah A. Fickett, also two brothers and four sisters.

C. T. Fox is gaining rapidly. Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Robie have been to Errol.

C. I. Wilson is two-sledding for Dan Cameron.

T. J. Bennett isn't as well at the present writing.

School closed Friday the 12th, after a ten weeks term.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bennett were in town Sunday, calling on friends.

A number of people came from Errol to attend W. L. Fickett's funeral.

Joe and Leslie Hart are sawing wood with their gasoline engine for the neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Bennett went to Errol, N. H., last Friday, and returned Saturday.

W. L. Fickett aged 64 died at his home in Magalloway, P. C., February 1st. The funeral services were held at the Wilson's Mills church. He was buried in John Oleson's family burying ground.

EAST DENMARK. Harry Higgins has a new graphophone. Myron Deering has bought a gasoline engine.

Adie Adams has been quite sick with grip.

Roscoe Hilton is hauling poplar to Ingalls station.

Herbert Evans is having lumber sawed to build a carriage house.

Horatio Gray, has been quite sick with measles at H. M. Moxey's.

Walter Berry is getting lumber sawed to build an addition to his barn.

Asa Newcomb and son of Harrison, were at Alfonso Hilton's Saturday.

Tons of sawdust is being hauled across Moose pond from Saborn's steam mill.

Geo. Lewis is having lumber sawed at the mill to build a cottage for a Massachusetts party on the east shore of Moose pond.

WEBB'S MILLS. Bert S. Phillips has spent several days in Gray and Portland.

Ice cutting on Dampening Pond is the order of business the coming week.

The Webb Mills Jubilee company are meeting with unprecedented success. Last week they presented Valley Farm to good houses at Harris Hill and Oxford.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Chandler spent Sunday in Gray and while there attended the U. V. Festival church. They report a very able discourse delivered by Rev. H. H. Hoyt of Hiram.

The Webb Mills Dramatic Club are rehearsing a new play, Placer Gold. Hamlin Tripp, Rudolph Hamlin, Miss Edna Winslow and Mrs. Ada Tripp will appear in roles particularly adapted to their individual talents.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by a cathartic remedy. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be removed, and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Cases of deafness of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free.

HEBRON. The centennial of Abraham Lincoln's birth was observed at Hebr in a manner that by the students was preceded by the presentation to the academy of the Fannie Doubman Stearns memorial clock by the donor, Henry K. Stearns, the speech of acceptance being made by Dr. A. R. Crane. Those who participated in the musical and literary exercises were: A. W. Newcombe, Edna Benson, Clarence Brown, William Knox, Arthur Moister, J. E. Philcox, Lucy O. Teague, Carl F. Briggs, Leah Hoxie, Lee Walker. Addresses were given by Dr. Crane and Principal W. E. Sargent.

Indigestion Ends. You can eat anything your stomach craves without fear of a case of Indigestion or Dyspepsia, or that your food will ferment or sour on your stomach if you will occasionally take a little Diapiesin after eating.

Your meals will taste good, and nothing you eat will be indigestible or poison your stomach, which causes Belching, Dizziness, a feeling of fullness after eating, Nausea, Indigestion (like a lump of lead in stomach), Bloating, Heartburn, Water brash, Pain in stomach and intestines or other symptoms.

Headaches from the stomach are absolutely unknown where this effective remedy is used. Diapiesin really does all the work of a healthy stomach. It digests your meals when your stomach can't. Each triangle will digest all the food you can eat and leave nothing to ferment or sour.

Get a box of 50-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin from your druggist and start taking today and by tomorrow you will actually brag about your healthy, strong stomach, for you then can eat anything and everything you want without the slightest discomfort or misery, and every particle of impurity and acid that is in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away without the use of laxatives or any other assistance.

The SPORTING WORLD

Coy an All Around Athlete.

Edward H. Coy, who was recently elected field captain of the Yale eleven, is an all around athlete. Besides being the greatest fullback in football today, Coy is a crack baseball player and a fast track man who has already won intercollegiate mention.

He has also shown good form in tennis and golf.

Coy played fullback and was captain of his freshman team two years ago and was varsity fullback last year, making several of the All American teams. He tied with Bobby Burch for regular captain last winter, and the election had to be delayed for a month for the return of G. R. B. Berger to vote off a tie. Coy was graduated from the Lakeville (Conn.) school, where his father was principal.

Professional Hockey. John T. McNamara, for several years manager of the champion Portage Lake hockey team of Houghton, Mich., is anxious for a revival of professional hockey. He would like very much to get Duluth and St. Paul-Minneapolis interested, which, he avers, would spell success in large letters for such an organization as it is proposed to form. On several occasions there has been discussed a league made up of St. Paul or Minneapolis, Duluth, Houghton, Sault Ste. Marie, Detroit and Cleveland, O. Such a circuit, it is felt, would provide a formidable one and one that would insure hockey becoming one of the leading winter pastimes in the United States.

Longboat May Retire. Rumor has it that Tom Longboat, the Canadian Indian long distance runner, will soon retire from the game. It is said that his physician has advised this course, as his many Marathon runs have weakened his heart to a certain extent, and it might prove serious if the Indian kept on running the extra long distances. Reports say that Longboat will run only two more Marathons, which are to be held in Canada, and that after this fall he will retire, not necessarily from the cinder path, but from the long road races. He may continue to compete in three and five mile races.

Gophers Lose Chestnut. Ed Chestnut, Minnesota's star football player, has been declared ineligible by the Gopher faculty owing to his failure to pass a recent examination in engineering. The loss of this speedy little player is a severe blow to Minnesota, and the prospects of having a winning team are now much darker than before. He was depended upon to make a great record on the gridiron this season.

Allen Winter Sold for $50,000. Just after making a show of his field in the three heats of the West stake in Lexington, Ky., recently Allen Winter, winner of the Readville handicap and other good races in the grand circuit, was purchased by I. Schiesinger of Vienna for $50,000. Allen Winter is a brown horse by Ed Winter, dam Miss Que, and he will be raced in Austria next season.

Warner's New Wrinkle. Coach Warner has a new wrinkle for the Carlisle Indians. The entire back field and the ends have brown, full sized footballs woven into the chests of their jerseys. This helps to keep an opponent guessing who has the ball, which, of course, is Warner's reason for the unique decoration of his men.

Yost to Coach West Point. The information has leaked out that Yost will assist in coaching the West Point eleven in its final week of preparation for the annual grill with the navy. Michigan's last game is with Syracuse on Nov. 21. This gives Yost a week at the army school, for the clash with the sailors does not come until the Saturday following.

Griffith May Handle Reds. It has been learned on good authority that Clarke Griffith will manage the Cincinnati Nationals next season. The story comes from very reliable sources. Color is lent to the matter by the fact that Griffith followed the reds all over the circuit on the last trip of the season.

SELF LOCKING DOVETAIL JOINT.
The accompanying engraving illustrates a self locking dovetail joint which cannot be pulled off in either direction. On one of the pieces the tenons are chamfered at the inside, while the grooves on the other piece are formed with a correspondingly chamfered inner wall. The corners are joined not by forcing one side piece at right angles to the other, but by placing the side pieces within the ends of the end pieces and then bringing the corner joints into place by moving the side pieces diagonally outward. A box thus constructed cannot pull apart without first crushing the sides, as this is the only direction in which the tenons of the side pieces may be moved out of engagement with those of the end pieces.

New Postoffice Device.
A new electrical apparatus which is designed to facilitate the dispatch of postal letters has been installed in a Paris postoffice. It consists of an "endless" roll of linoleum 200 feet in length. This in revolving rubs against thirty-two electric bobbins operated by a powerful distributor. When the current is switched on the linoleum roll descends into the letter box, the contents of which are attracted to the linoleum by the electricity communicated by the bobbins. The letters are thrown into a truck and carried by the public room to the sorting office. The saving in time is said to be considerable, and the apparatus is almost noiseless.

ANCESTORS OF THE FOX.
K. Tolst of Vienna has produced what he and others regard as virtually conclusive evidence that foxes are descended from ancestor-foxes whose bodies were clothed with horny scales, like those of the pangolins, or scaly anteaters. This evidence is based upon the examination of the skins of young foxes and depends not only upon the arrangement of the hairs, but upon the fact that the skin itself exhibits a structure such as would be shown by that of a pangolin after the removal of the scales.

WEST BETHEL.
A heavy snowstorm Tuesday.
Dr. G. F. Fernald made a professional visit at A. Grover's last Saturday.

Mrs. John Adams took dinner with her mother, Mrs. Burnham McKeon, one day last week.

New Life Saving Appliance.
Captain G. K. Grandy, R. N. R., is responsible for a useful adjunct to the accepted life saving appliances required by the English board of trade. He has utilized the ordinary canvas cover of a ship's boat so as to form a buoyant raft by the introduction of cork and bamboo cane. This additional element of buoyancy occupies no more room and adds very little weight to the customary equipment of a ship's boat and possesses the material advantage of being in the most natural and convenient place on a vessel for use when occasion arises. To lower a boat's cover must be removed for the operation, and in the case of the buoyant cover it can be either laid aside or thrown overboard and, being attached by a line, is there at hand ready for any emergency.—Scientific American.

ARTIFICIAL CLOUDS.
How French Vineyards are Protected From Frost.
The French grape growers protect their vineyards from frost by producing artificial clouds is described by Consul Murphy of Bordeaux: "The process, the invention of Edouard Lestout of Bordeaux, consists of filling small wooden boxes, open at top, with an inflammable composition consisting of a mixture of equal parts of resinous with earthy matters (clay, terra alba and the like) reduced to fine powder and pressed into a compact mass. In the center a wick extends through the compound and serves to kindle it. The wick, however, may be dispensed with and the composition ignited by pouring a few drops of alcohol, petroleum or other inflammable oil over the mass and applying a match. These boxes, about six inches long by six wide, made of pine wood ordinarily, are placed in line about thirty feet apart around certain areas.
"So early as the first of September, the most dangerous period of the year is in April, when the young shoots are showing some vigor and the juices running freely. Then a slight frost may mean disaster unless the plants are protected in some way. There is but little danger when a dark or cloudy morning follows a cold night. The trouble comes when the first rays of the morning sun strike the almost frozen and unprotected plant. By the Lestout process a dense cloud of smoke is produced, hanging over the vineyard long enough to protect the plants from the sun's rays and give them a chance to recuperate from the dangerous effects of the frost.
"The composition in the boxes to windward only is ignited, the thick, black, heavy smoke hanging over the field forming a shield against the sun's rays. The inventor declares that his process may be used for masking the movements of an army, hiding the erection of field works; also as a rain producer and even for driving off grasshoppers and locusts."

WEIGHT AND LONGEVITY.
Those Nearest the Standard Possess Greatest Vitality.
The greatest vitality and lowest mortality have been found by Dr. Brannan Symonds in persons whose weight is within 10 per cent. of the standard. His investigations have been based on the records of 200,000 males and have included all ages and various disease tendencies as influenced by age as well as weight.
For the normal or standard weight of a man forty years old and five feet six inches tall 150 pounds is accepted, while the rule adding 3 per cent in weight for each extra inch proves fairly accurate. The standard weight increases with age in little men up to forty-five, in middle sized men up to fifty and in the tall up to fifty or sixty. Standards for women are not yet worked out, though it is known that at twenty women are six to nine pounds lighter than men, the difference diminishing with age. Both overweight and underweight—each being a deviation of 20 per cent. from the standard—affect health and longevity. Mortality increases as the excess weight rises above 20 per cent, and no overweight dies from old age or even lives to eighty. Underweight is less serious, as among 1,075 male underweights forty-four passed eighty and twenty reached ninety.
In the young overweight may counteract predisposition to consumption. Overweights, however, have far more than average liability to disease of brain, heart and stomach, effects of alcoholism and diabetes, and pneumonia, contrary to common belief, is twice as fatal as among underweights. Consumption, especially in early life, is the dreaded disease of underweights.

NEW POSTOFFICE DEVICE.
A new electrical apparatus which is designed to facilitate the dispatch of postal letters has been installed in a Paris postoffice. It consists of an "endless" roll of linoleum 200 feet in length. This in revolving rubs against thirty-two electric bobbins operated by a powerful distributor. When the current is switched on the linoleum roll descends into the letter box, the contents of which are attracted to the linoleum by the electricity communicated by the bobbins. The letters are thrown into a truck and carried by the public room to the sorting office. The saving in time is said to be considerable, and the apparatus is almost noiseless.

ANCESTORS OF THE FOX.
K. Tolst of Vienna has produced what he and others regard as virtually conclusive evidence that foxes are descended from ancestor-foxes whose bodies were clothed with horny scales, like those of the pangolins, or scaly anteaters. This evidence is based upon the examination of the skins of young foxes and depends not only upon the arrangement of the hairs, but upon the fact that the skin itself exhibits a structure such as would be shown by that of a pangolin after the removal of the scales.

Interesting Facts.

F. P. Stone Offers to Cure Catarrh. The Medicine Costs Nothing If He Fails.

When a medicine effects a cure in 98% of cases and is guaranteed to do so, it will cost the user nothing if it does not cure Catarrh, it is only reasonable that people should believe us, or at least put our claim to a practical test when we take all the risk. These facts which we want the people of Norway to substantiate. We want them to try Rexall Mucun-Tone, a medicine prepared from a prescription of a physician who has a record of thirty years of cures to an extent.

We sell more bottles and receive more good reports about Rexall Mucun-Tone than we do of all other catarrh remedies sold in our store, and if more people only knew what a thoroughly dependable remedy Rexall Mucun-Tone is, it would be the only catarrh medicine we would have any demand for.

Rexall Mucun-Tone is quickly absorbed and carried by the blood until it thoroughly disintegrates and cleanses the entire mucous membranous tract, destroys and removes the parasites which injure and destroy the membranous tissues, soothes and heals the irritation and soreness, stops the mucous discharge, and builds up strong, healthy tissue, leaves the blood and system of diseased matter, stimulates the mucous cells, aids digestion and improves nutrition until the whole body vibrates with healthy activity. In a comparatively short time, there is a most noticeable gain in weight, strength, good color and feeling of buoyancy.

We urge you to try Mucun-Tone, beginning a treatment today. At any time you are not satisfied, simply come and tell us, and we will quickly return your money without question or quibble. We have Rexall Mucun-Tone in two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. F. P. Stone, Norway, Maine.

History of Ladies' Veranda Club.

As the month of February advances at different times an article is seen in our weekly paper in connection with a Veranda Club called the Ladies' Veranda Club and what is their work?

It has been suggested that a short history of the club be given, that the people of Norway may better understand the effect of the work of our club.

A short sketch of the club will be given below, from the time it was organized up to the present time of writing.

The Ladies' Veranda Club.

On a summer day in 1895 there assembled at one of the pretty homes of lower Main street a party of ladies with their work, to enjoy each others company. As the time passed by and the hour to part had come the thought came to one of the ladies, "Why not form a club and meet every week? The idea was hailed with delight and straightway a president was elected. The meetings were to be held on Saturday afternoon of each week, at the homes of the different members, the club to be called the Veranda Club.

How much those summer afternoons were enjoyed none but those present will ever know.

Of the good times such as picnics, parties and the like I cannot personally say much about them until the year 1898 this being the year I became one of its honored members.

It was not until the spring of 1898 that the club decided to pay dues. This consisted of one cent from each member at each meeting.

Our first venture in money making was a lawn party given at the home of Grace Cole, which was a decided success.

Next we made a quilt which we sold to the highest bidder. This brought us about ten dollars. We were happy, and decided to start a bank account.

After this we worked at every meeting with some purpose, our aim being to sew for or help in other ways those less fortunate than ourselves; but it was not all work. I wish I could tell you all the good times which our club have enjoyed together. Of the rides out of town where we forgot that we were "grown up" of the good dinners and suppers we have enjoyed at the homes where we met, but it would take too much time.

In 1899 we had our first Children's day in Mrs. Jewett Cole's grove. Since then, Children's day has been observed each year.

Our next new feature was Gentleman's night. The first that I attended was at Mrs. Maggie Libby's, where were gathered the club members and their gentlemen and a royal good time enjoyed. The next was at Mrs. Ella Cole's. It was one of the good times never to be forgotten.

We met a few times at the different members' homes but the time enjoyed these good times so well and attended so largely, we decided to hire the G. A. R. hall to entertain in. Now each year invitations are sent out for that occasion which are generously responded to.

In the fall of 1899 we held our first fair. Did any of you ever help on a fair? No doubt you all have, and I need not tell you how hard we all worked to make it a success, which it proved to be and our bank account was larger by many dollars. We had caught the money making fever and were looking after all the chances.

In the fall of 1900 a circus was billed to appear in town. I remember this as it was an occasion, the remembrance of which will always remain in our memory. We decided to sell lemonade at the circus. A committee was appointed, not young girls who might flirt with our customers, but staid married ladies. Well, we pitched our tables, not our tents, in places across the way from the fair grounds, and displayed our wares.

We were obliged to accept the services of a few young ladies who were in hopes to be given complimentary tickets to the circus, after seeing the manager and planning buying lemonade. Possibly they received them, as shortly after they were conspicuous by their absence. Night came at last and amid the gloom we gathered together our tables, and started for home, hot, dusty and tired, no poorer and not much richer. (My advice, don't sell lemonade at the circus.)

In 1901 we voted to go to the lake for a week. A committee was appointed to secure a cottage, and about twenty of us went. It was kept before the club and in time a vote was taken to form an association for the purpose of building a club hall. A lot was bought, of H. L. Horne which was paid for by the association in less than two years, taking no money from the funds of the club, and in no way interfering with the original work of the club.

We have been organized thirteen years. We have donated in Norway, it money, an average of $900.00 a year, and have made and given an average of five quilts a year. Beside this we have given pound parties, watched with the sick, sewed for the needy, and remembered the dead with flowers.

In 1897 the bylaws were amended and it was voted that the membership of the club should not exceed 25. We have lost by death, seven members, and there have been several changes in membership on account of removals from town etc.

Looking back over the years I have been a member I find pleasant memories and will say our club stands today for all it has represented in the past, and we are all looking forward to at least as hopeful a future.

The Fruit Growers.
Oxford County Fruit Grower Association has engaged Prof. E. F. Hitch at Paris College hall on the 24th of this month. The meeting will be called to order at 10 a. m. Prof. Hitchings will speak both forenoon and afternoon on account of subjects.

All people interested in the growing of apples are cordially asked to come. Come at 10 o'clock and stay all day. Fruit growers can afford to put aside all other work and devote this day to the most important crop that is produced on our right away a tremendous struggle for the markets of the world between the apple growers of the Pacific coast and the apple growers of the Atlantic coast.

This meeting is free for everyone, whether members of the Association or not. We want all apple producers and apple dealers to come. A special invitation is extended to the ladies. Paris College will furnish a warm dinner for a nominal sum.

His "Future Wife."

By Nellie Cravey Gilmore
Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

The Judge fingered the dainty note reflectively, narrowed his keen gray eyes, breathed a little faster—and started himself by blushing. Yet the contents of the missive were very simple, very commonplace and ran as follows:

Pecan Grove, Oct. 29.
My Dear Judge—Billy is very anxious to have you run down for the week end and has asked me to write and urge you to come.

There is to be quite a jolly crowd—about a dozen of us—and we are going to wind up with a big Halloween ball Saturday evening, the 31st.

Come and learn who is to be your future wife. With best wishes,
—DIANA LANDIS.

Judge Underwood was abruptly conscious of a vain and frivolous desire to be young again. He even took out his pocket mirror and studied his reflection critically, noting the little furrows between his straight black brows with an apprehensive heart.

Would Miss Landis have written so cordially had she dreamed of the reckless tide of emotions surging within him at the bare sight of her well remembered little "screw"? Would she have written at all? He thought not, for Diana was but nineteen, and he was hovering very close to forty!

Ten years ago he had taught her the three R's in the village school at Pecan Grove, and five years ago she had been the first to discover the half dozen silver hairs that had since grown into the little tuft of gray above his left temple.

Still, he could no more control the feelings that obsessed him than he could clip off the years that stood between him and his heart's desire, so with an impulsive hand he seized a pen from the rack and dashed down his answer:

New York, Oct. 22.
Dear Miss Landis—Your kind invitation reaches me at a most opportune time, and you may be sure I shall enjoy taking a week off down at the Grove.

The prospect of finding a life partner appeals to me as much as the anticipation of the visit, as I am beginning to need ballast very badly. Since my own marriage I have been a confirmed bachelor.

As soon as he had dispatched his letter the judge thrust aside the clamorous pile of briefs on his desk, picked up his hat and hurried down to his tailor's.

When informed by his sartorial excellency that the pearl gray, just completed, made him "look like a boy" the judge was again so foolish as to allow his face to grow red, but he merely scowled in reply and ordered the suit sent to his rooms at once.

The next morning at 9 he left on his journey, reaching Pecan Grove at 3 in the afternoon. Billy Landis was at the station with a smart little trap, and they had an exhibit of two mile spin through the hectic autumn woods.

The judge longed to ask some questions about Diana, but kept craftily silent, hoping that Billy would presently volunteer a little information.

And after thrashing out every other subject under the sun—so it seemed to the guest—Billy finally remarked: "We have six girls—angels, all of them—and six of the opposite variety of brute, including you and myself. Di has planned no end of thrilling stunts for every day in the week, she and Teddy Carstairs."

The judge felt his heart drop like a leaden plummet, but he forced himself to say, matter of factly: "I don't think I ever heard of the name down here. Is he?"

"Of course you didn't," interposed Billy quickly. "They're a nice English family who have leased the adjoining plantation. Teddy is the oldest boy. He's a brick too."

Judge Underwood was keenly conscious of a desire to kick himself clear back to New York. Why ever had he succumbed idiotically to the temptation of the moment in allowing himself to be inveigled down here? He had permitted himself to be made a fool of by a girl's offer of friendly hospitality, by a tailor's stupid drivel, by his own ardent imbecility.

But he managed adroitly to box up his feelings and observe with a surprising degree of enthusiasm: "It was really good of you all to have me here. I was just on the verge of stagnation, and this little breath of fresh air will set me on my feet."

Then with the delectable sensations he had ever experienced the judge pulled a smile to his lips and a light to his eyes as they drooped up with a flourish under the porte-cochere.

The first person his gaze rested on was Diana herself. She ran but with both slim brown hands extended in welcome and a beautiful flush showed vividly through the apricot tan of her cheeks. "I'm so glad to see you, Judge," she said. "It seems like a century since you went away, yet it's been only two years, hasn't it?"

"By facts and figures," he replied, crushing her fingers warmly, "other-wise—eternities."

They both laughed and stood on the porch chatting till Billy returned and dragged Judge Underwood off to his room. After they had gone Diana stood still in the same spot for several minutes. Presently she drew a deep breath and shook her head.

"No," she mused softly; "it's made a difference. What with legal honors and money and New York people!"

At this juncture Teddy Carstairs came up and interrupted her reflections, claiming her for the next tennis match, and, gulping her irritation, Diana smiled and accompanied him down to the court.

From his upstairs window the judge, with the little "green god" at his elbow, watched them cross the lawn and disappear. Half an hour later, having

AFTER FOUR YEARS OF MISERY

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Baltimore, Md.—"For four years my life was a misery to me. I suffered from irregularities, terrible dragging sensations, extreme nervousness, and that all gone feeling in my stomach. I had given up hope of ever being well when I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Then I felt as though new life had been given me, and I am recommending it to all my friends."—Mrs. W. S. Ford, 1938 Lansdowne St., Baltimore, Md.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has stood the test of years and to-day is more widely known and used than any other female remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that dragging-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed.

If you are suffering from any of these ailments, don't give up hope until you have given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. She has guided thousands to health, free of charge.

exchanged his dark traveling suit for the delectable gray, he went downstairs and joined the crowd on the veranda.

"We are going to bob for apples first," announced Diana, who was adorable in a pink lingerie frock, "and afterward run around the square one at a time. Then there's the looking glass stunt and the 'face in the well.'"

"Let me suggest," remarked Teddy Carstairs from a sprawling position on the sofa, "that as we have only to 12 o'clock to dance we divide up on these honors. I choose 'bobbing.'"

"Your idea is in order, Ted," approved Diana, with a charming dimple which the judge registered against her in his heart. "Are there any more volunteers?"

There were five. Four more were started out separately to walk around the square in quest of their affiliates, while Teddy and Molly Perkins disappeared in search of a looking glass.

"It looks as if we are in for what the well will reveal," laughed Diana as Judge Underwood came up to her.

"You are the general," he said, "and I'm reporting for orders." The week's intimacy had put them on terms of the most friendly companionship, although long ago the judge had consigned his foolish hopes to the dead past.

But Diana, who had never been very astute in arithmetic, was doubly so in mind reading, and she penetrated the judge's most sacred thoughts with subtle divination. "Then," she said, "if you're a good soldier you will go down to the old well in the corner of the cabbage field, glance in and turn away quickly, coming as fast as you can back to the house. Wait till you hear the clock strike 9." And she left him before he could protest.

For an instant the judge stood gazing after her with wistful, troubled eyes. Then, summoning his dignity—and his courage—he slipped, unnoticed, through one of the low windows and walked leisurely down to where the old well loomed, a dilapidated bulk, from which all water had been drawn, in the half light of the dilatory stars.

He paused a second, with his hand on the crumbling bucket shelf. Then he took a deep breath and looked down into a solemn pair of unwinking brown eyes.

His heart gave a terrific, most ungentlemanly throb, and then the judge did a very arbitrary thing. He deliberately struck a match, throwing its bright yellow glare across two crimson cheeks, a shining mass of golden brown hair and clouds of pink dimity.

At this juncture the judge quite forgot that he was almost forty, that he was wearing his immaculate pearl gray, that a million stars were looking on, for he vaulted lightly the inclosure of the well and dropped down, four feet into the soft sand beside his "future wife" and folded her, regardless, in his arms.

"But you were to look and run right away," protested Diana in a muffled tone. "You didn't play fair; it's all a joke."

"It's a sublime reality," the judge cut in luminously, "and six automobiles couldn't have dragged me away." Diana gurgled softly as he kissed her again. Then they scrambled out to gether.

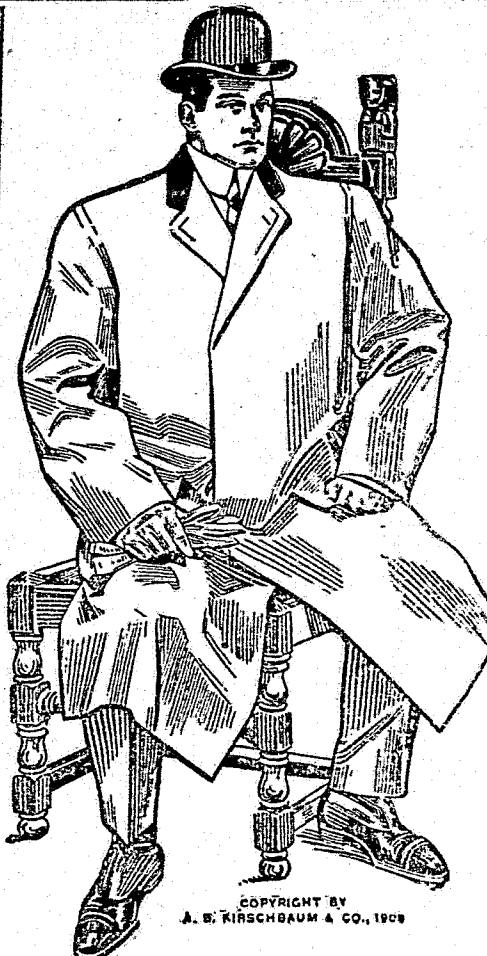

Ambition.
"Here's an invitation to the wedding of Alexander Hamilton Jones to Mary Jane Wiggs. Gracious, I wonder what Jones is marrying her for?"

"Probably just to see his name spelled out in full!"—Catholic Standard and Times.

The Height of Affability.
Randall—Falls all over you, does she?

Rogers—She couldn't be any more affable if I were her cook.—Judge.
